What you offer

University graduates

To join Bayer you need an excellent university degree in business studies, engineering, science, medicine, psychology or a similar discipline. Ideally you should have further qualifications, for example, a PhD or MBA, and experience of working or studying abroad. You should also have gained some practical experience during your training, through internships or by working alongside your studies.

Bayer is an equal opportunity employer.

MBAs and young professionals

As a young professional, you have already gained experience of working in industry or consulting. You have worked on complex corporate management projects and are therefore able to implement them effectively. Since your previous assignments required interdisciplinary teamwork, you have the necessary personal skillset alongside your professional qualifications.

You will fit in particularly well with us if you share our passion to innovate and want your ideas and solutions to bring about change. Your outstanding analytical and conceptual skills, initiative and ability to convince others drive forward projects. You are also fluent in English and enjoy working in an international environment.

What we offer

As an international science-based company we are passionate about innovations that improve the way people live in our world. Bayer offers an open and inspiring environment. We encourage you to question the status quo and think ahead. It takes imagination, ambition and courage to find answers to society's most pressing questions.

Whether you are a university graduate starting out on your career or a young professional, Bayer Business Consulting offers a wide range of employment and development opportunities. As a graduate, you will rapidly be given responsibility and exciting assignments on consulting projects. You will have direct contact to customers and other consultants, either in Germany or abroad, depending on the project.

As a young professional, you will immediately be entrusted with independent project assignments or even the management of a sub-project, depending on your qualifications and experience.

You will also have the opportunity to play a key role in shaping inhouse consulting in the Bayer Group. To support your personal and professional development, we offer an individually tailored career program.
